

ShopEase Shipping Policy

Document Type: Customer Support Policy

Company: ShopEase

Policy Version: 1.0

Effective Date: September 30, 2026

1. Overview

ShopEase provides delivery services for eligible orders placed through the ShopEase platform.

Shipping availability, delivery time, and available shipping options may vary depending on the product, delivery location, seller, and other operational conditions.

2. Shipping Options

ShopEase may provide different shipping options depending on the order and delivery location.

Common shipping options include:

- Standard Delivery
- Express Delivery
- Scheduled Delivery, where available

The shipping options available for a particular order are shown during the applicable ordering or delivery process.

Not every shipping option is available for every product or location.

3. Standard Delivery

Standard Delivery is the regular delivery option available for eligible orders.

The estimated delivery time depends on:

- Product availability
- Seller processing time
- Delivery location
- Courier or logistics availability

- Operational conditions

The estimated delivery date shown for an order should be used when checking the expected arrival of that order.

4. Express Delivery

Express Delivery may provide a shorter estimated delivery period than Standard Delivery in eligible locations.

Express Delivery availability depends on:

- Product eligibility
- Delivery location
- Inventory availability
- Current logistics capacity

An express option may not be available for every order.

5. Delivery Estimates

ShopEase provides an estimated delivery date for eligible orders.

An estimated delivery date is not a guarantee that the order will arrive on that exact date.

Delivery may be affected by:

- Weather conditions
- Transportation delays
- High order volumes
- Operational disruptions
- Address-related issues
- Courier delays
- Other unexpected circumstances

Customers should check the latest order information for the current delivery estimate.

6. Order Tracking

Orders that have been shipped may have tracking information available.

A tracking number can be used to follow the shipment through the applicable logistics or delivery system.

The availability and frequency of tracking updates may vary.

If a shipment has recently been dispatched, tracking information may take some time to appear or update.

7. Delivery Status

Common delivery statuses may include:

- Processing: The order is being prepared.
- Packed: The product has been prepared for shipment.
- Shipped: The order has been handed over for delivery.
- In Transit: The shipment is moving through the delivery network.
- Out for Delivery: The shipment is scheduled for delivery.
- Delivered: The delivery has been recorded as completed.
- Delayed: The expected delivery may take longer than originally estimated.

The status of a specific customer's order must be retrieved from the order system.

8. Delivery Address

Customers should provide a complete and accurate delivery address when placing an order.

An incorrect or incomplete address may result in:

- Delivery delays
- Failed delivery attempts
- Additional verification
- Return of the shipment to the applicable facility

Address changes after an order has been placed may not always be possible.

The ability to change an address depends on the order's current processing and shipping status.

9. Delivery Attempts

The delivery provider may make one or more delivery attempts depending on the applicable delivery process.

If a delivery attempt is unsuccessful, the customer may receive additional delivery instructions or another delivery attempt where available.

Customers should ensure that the delivery address and contact information provided with the order are accurate.

10. Delayed Deliveries

If an order is delayed, the customer should first check the latest tracking and order information.

A delay may occur because of:

- Logistics disruptions
- Weather
- High shipment volumes
- Incorrect address information
- Transportation problems
- Other operational circumstances

If the order remains delayed beyond the applicable expected delivery period, the customer can contact ShopEase support.

11. Lost Shipments

If a shipment appears to be lost or has not received tracking updates for an extended period, the customer should contact ShopEase support.

Support may investigate the shipment with the applicable delivery provider.

Customers should provide the relevant order ID when contacting support.

12. Damaged Packages

If a package appears visibly damaged at the time of delivery, the customer should document the condition where possible and contact ShopEase support if the product is affected.

The customer may be asked to provide:

- Order ID
- Description of the damage
- Photographs of the package or product
- Other information required for investigation

Damaged-product returns or refunds are handled according to the applicable ShopEase return and refund policies.

13. Delivery Fees

Shipping fees may vary depending on:

- Shipping method
- Product
- Delivery location
- Order conditions
- Applicable promotions

The applicable shipping fee should be shown to the customer during the ordering process where a shipping charge applies.

14. Specific Order Delivery Questions

The general shipping policy can answer questions such as:

- "What shipping options does ShopEase offer?"
- "What can cause a delivery delay?"
- "What does 'Out for Delivery' mean?"
- "How does order tracking work?"
- "Can an incorrect address cause a delay?"

However, questions about a specific order require order information.

Examples:

- "Where is my order ORD1001?"
- "When will ORD1001 arrive?"
- "What is the tracking number for my order?"

- "Is ORD1001 delayed?"

The ShopEase support assistant must retrieve the relevant order information instead of guessing.

15. Estimated Delivery vs. Actual Delivery

The estimated delivery date represents the current expected delivery date available for the order.

It should not be treated as a guaranteed delivery date.

If the order status or estimated delivery date changes, the latest information from the order system should be used.

16. Contacting Support

Customers can contact ShopEase support when:

- A shipment appears to be lost.
- Tracking information has stopped updating.
- An order is significantly delayed.
- A delivery issue cannot be resolved through the available order information.
- A delivered package has a product-related problem.

Support may request the order ID and additional information to investigate the issue.

17. Policy Updates

ShopEase may update its shipping procedures, delivery options, and estimated timelines.

The policy version and effective date should be checked when determining which shipping rules apply.
